AMERICANS IN BATTLE

Yankee Fighters Are Consolidated With English in New Offensive To Drive Huns Back.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Oct. 8.—English and American troops attacked this morning on the front between St. Quentin and Cambrai, Field Marshal Haig announced today. Satisfactory progress is being made, the Field Marshal states. In successful local operations near Mont Rehain and Borev on this front yesterday more than 230 prisoners were taken by Americans and English troops. Today's attack was launched just before day break during a heavy rain which began last night.

Renewing major operation on the center of the line from the Meuse to the north sea, British and American troops today are smashing into the rear defense of the Hindenburg line between St. Quentin and Cambrai, while Field Marshal Haig is attacking on the 20-mile front north of St. Quentin.

The French along the Suisse continued their progress northward toward the German communication line. Despite strong enemy resistance the French have reached the junction of the Suisse and Aisne rivers, and forced their way into two of the large towns on the middle Suisse. The Anglo-American thrust against the vital sector between Cambrai and St. Quentin follows successful local operations Monday in the region of Borev and Montbrehain in which 2,000 German prisoners were taken.

American Headquarters in France, Oct. 8.—There has been little movement on the front from the Argonne to the Meuse in the last 24 hours. Circumstances report the enemy is moving troops and wagons northward from Somme and Reims, continued to come in, but it is still leaving enough men to hold his position here. German machine guns are said to be only 15 feet apart though this sounds like a needless exaggeration and there seems to be considerable artillery reserve back of the German line at some positions not yet disclosed.

Past Performances
On the other hand, British which was well fortified and held by many machine gun companies is now being broken to the ground. Grunprey, Due and Acreville are also burning. These fires were probably kindled by the Germans and contradict any other evidence there may be, that permanent occupation had been intended by the Germans. It seems, probably, therefore, the Americans are being held up there only long enough to enable the enemy troops to retire from the big Reims pocket.

Organization
The Germans are able to hold up the Americans for this is the first experience the men from across the Atlantic have really had with a really organized resistance. The opposition in the Marne salient was almost entirely machine guns, while at St. Michel the enemy never met them. The first day's fighting between the Meuse and Argonne forest tell in same catastrophe but, in no mean time it is clear that the Americans are being confronted with the attack, the solution of which cost the French and British four years of hard fighting.

Organization
Given the necessary material the secret of success lies in the perfect co-ordination of the working part of the ordinary machine. This is extremely difficult to achieve. Owing to the fact that had been training for fifty years it was almost instinctive to the Germans. The American army has accomplished wonders of organization in a short time and a little practice will give it that suppleness and dexterity which it needs. In no mean time it is clear that the German staff that "We must not consider the construction of a new system of positions with trenches and other work as this is impossible owing to the state of the labor supply."

An easier time may therefore be anticipated when the Kermehille line is carried. French Advance Paris.—Northeast and north of Reims the French continued their successful advance. The war office announcement today says French troops have reached the outskirts of Conde-Sur-Suippe of the junction of the Suisse and Aisne northeast of Marly-Au-Bac along the Suisse river. The French have penetrated into Isere-Suippe and to the west have captured Bourceton.

Counter Attacks
With the French Army in France at Reims, Oct. 8.—German forces have turned at bay on the north bank of the Suisse river and have been counter attacking with desperate energy and dash. To prevent the French from crossing the river they have attacked on the Lys between Poncavre and Marly-Au-Bac throwing large units into action on the center of this front.

ON ITALIAN FRONT.—Vigorous fighting has occurred in the mountain sector of Italian front, but nothing approaching a general engagement is reported.

If the French succeed in establishing themselves on the north side of the Aisne in this region they will immediately turn the German line on the Suisse and also the next enemy position on the Retourne, therefore the Germans have attempted to keep the French south of the Aisne.

The whole press says that the request for an armistice is an acknowledgement of defeat by the central empires.

Commander of Camp Grant Found Dead Early This Morning

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Camp Grant, Ill., Oct. 8.—Colonel C. H. Magadon, acting commander of Camp Grant, was found dead in his quarters at the camp this morning. It is believed he committed suicide, is not yet confirmed. At camp headquarters it was announced the Colonel was found dead at about breakfast time.

The cause of his death was due, no doubt, to nervous collapse brought by work and worry over the epidemic of influenza. Said Colonel Charles W. Castle, Colonel Castle declined to make further statement until an official inquiry was made. Colonel Castle becomes acting commander of the camp.

War at a Glance

GERMAN LINE—Crossing the Aisne at Berry-Au-Bac the French have brought new peril to the whole German line in the Lorraine and Champagne sector in France. This advance by General Berthelot's men seems to be a stroke which may be considered in future as the first step in the final operation designed to the German line in this position they had held for so long from the Allier river to the Meuse. If the French are able to debouch from Berry-Au-Bac and obtain a bridgehead on the north side of the Aisne, the German force still clinging to the Chemin-des-Dames along the ridge north of the Aisne retreating before General Gouraud's army further to the east will find that the Aisne is apparently objective in the present retirement is not safe. It may on the other hand be but a trap for the shattered forces now streaming back from the Pyrenees and upper Aisne rivers.

Huns Must Release all Territory

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Oct. 8.—President Wilson today informed the German government that before the United States can discuss an armistice German troops must withdraw from all invaded territory. He asked Chancellor Maximilian whether he represented the German people or the authorities of the empire who are conducting the war.

The President's message was not a reply, but in the form of an inquiry. The Imperial German government is asked whether it accepts the terms laid down by the President in his address to Congress, January 8th, and subsequent addresses.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S REPLY TO GERMANY'S REQUEST FOR ARMISTICE WILL BE DISPATCHED BEFORE NIGHT.

NOTE READY TONIGHT

When Completed Will Have Full Approval of Great Britain, France And Italy.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Oct. 8.—President Wilson's reply to the German and Austrian request for armistice probably will be dispatched before night if it is not already on the tables.

Stays In Study

After being called into conference by the President, Colonel Lounsbury and Secretary Lansing, Secretary Tammie was not told to Mr. Lansing who would see the newspaper correspondents at 4 o'clock and "probably would have something for them." The President spent the entire morning in his study and was believed to be putting in final shape a document on which he worked nearly all day yesterday.

Being Formulated

America's reply to Germany's latest peace proposal was being formulated by President Wilson today in accordance with the request of the allied nation. Dispatches to the relay which it is believed will speak for all the nations opposed to the central powers may be expected within 48 hours, it is indicated.

Asks Advice of Premiers

The President it was believed, today has preceded actual conference of the premiers by sending a telegram to President Lloyd George and Orlando to advise him of his answer or by submitting a draft of his reply for approval. At any rate it was assured the American reply will have the approval of Great Britain, France and Italy and all belligerents.

Unlimited Care

The President is known to be giving unlimited care to the frontiers of the republic, denying himself his daily recreation and staying in the quarters of the military. Feeling that cooperation with or closely following the dispatch of the reply, President Wilson will address congress persisted although with absolutely no official confirmation.

President Wilson's fourteen old and five new points to be accepted by us if put forward honestly without humiliation to Germany. "We shall not give an unjust, humiliating peace. The new ministry is not only a ministry of peace, but if necessary a ministry of national defense, and if it must be to the bitter end."

The local editor of Berlin says two of President Wilson's points must be considered rejected, the separation of Alsace-Lorraine from Germany and the incorporation of an independent Poland of Prussian Poland.

London.—The Pethers party in Reichstag, after the resolution of the Reichstag, Saturday, passed a resolution in favor of the peace offer of Prince Maximilian, according to a Zurich dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

BELGIAN RELIEF QUARTERS CLOSED

The Belgian Relief Headquarters closed yesterday after a most successful campaign. The drive continued a week longer than was expected on account of the quantities of clothing sent in. Over three tons of shoes and wearing apparel of all kinds were sent to Newark, New Jersey, where the clothing will be sorted, packed in bales and shipped overseas.

Clothing enough to outfit more than five hundred children and one hundred infants was sent in from Janesville and the surrounding towns. The Daughters of Isabella sent in little garments in piles of dozens. These were all made of new material by the society during its spare time since last February. The response was so generous on all sides that more than twice the clothing looked for was sent in.

Mrs. L. C. Brewer, chairman, wishes to thank all those who kindly donated their services, those merchants who gave boxes and all who assisted in packing and carrying the boxes to the depots.

USHER WRITES ON MANY SUBJECTS OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

By Ellis B. Usher.
Milwaukee, Oct. 5.—The stirring news from the many victorious battles of the allies have filled all the wide world of enemies of German power. Probably most people will expect that it too soon, for it must be realized, that the Kaiser and his Junker supporters have every reason to fight to the last ditch. No peace not of their own making can save their skins. They had better die with their boots on than live to be accused by an outraged German people with the downfall of German prosperity and the eclipse of German hopes of world domination. If the Kaiser gets short of that he is likely to stuff himself out in some spectacular fashion, as did one of his brothers. But he's "on the way." Hope of anything but a thorough beating for him must be abandoned.

It is a matter of no small gratification that the scenes shifted decisively from France upon the advent of American troops and every citizen of Wisconsin who deserves his birthright must glow with pride that Wisconsin boys of the Rainbow Division were among the first Americans to be baptized with fire. Also that the 32nd division that covered itself with glory in the Chateau Thierry salient and again at St. Mihiel, contains most of our National Guardsmen. Wisconsin has made good in every battle and her boys are beginning to return, full of honor, to reconstruct new troops. There is small comfort for the carpenters and lagards. We scarcely remember now, that our senior senator was preaching throughout Wisconsin, two years ago, that this country could not raise, drill and equip an army fit to fight the Germans before the war would be over, and if it could do so by any superhuman effort, there was and could be, no way of getting them to France. He was a proud prophet. To America nothing is impossible. Her men and women are doing demonstrating. Better still, nothing ought to be impossible for the real American freeman, but cowardice. The chief propellers of the caves of doubt and hesitancy are already in eclipse and others are on the way. May the Lord have mercy on their souls for their countrymen will not.

An employee of the Milwaukee Investor Works was painted yellow the other day, because he said "I've got $100, but I'll be——d if I'll buy a bond unless the government compels me to." His fellow workmen did the job. The newspaper that printed the item said it was the fifth occurrence of the kind in this city within two days. Other cases have been reported. When the local citizens of Ashland did two or three similar jobs and got the condemned of the authorities that the guilty party was persecuted and he intimated that the power of the state was behind his order to the district attorney of that county. There was a prosecution and the jury cleared the accused. I have been told by prominent citizens of Ashland that no jury can be found in that county that would convict loyal men for thus expressing the sense of outrage and shame of their community, put upon it by disloyal citizens. Nobody will uphold law breaking, but the feeling that there is laxity in the enforcement of the laws against sedition and treason.

will find expression that way if the governor invites the demonstration. That the people in Ashland, Bayfield and Washburn counties have some such feeling is easily inferred from the complete turnover of those counties in the recent primary. Milwaukee may be a better field for such oppositions. It is the governor's people who demanded "retirement." He knew, and admitted, that the people demanded the extraordinary financial demands of raising troops to blunt entirely the extra burdens with the reckless extravagance on the "business man" in the executive office at Madison.

He knew, and admitted, that the people demanded "retirement." He has taken refuge behind the extraordinary financial demands of raising the cold outside now, the governor's Ashland order was regarded, there, as a political bluff and they have called it.

Two or three sets of resolutions have recently been passed by public meetings calling upon United States District Attorney Sawyer to prosecute Victor Berger. Impatience may be justifiable, from a purely local point of view, but progress is making, even if Mr. Sawyer does not seem to be concerned. Victor Berger has been indicted in Chicago, and a vigorous district attorney there has everything in readiness to try him this month, see if there's an answer.

Meanwhile the New York Mail and the Washington Times look like biggs.

Mr. Berger, more recently head of the Chicago and Northwestern's legal department in this state, has decided to return to private practice and will become a member of the firm of Tagleblatt, who were convicted last week of treason, appeared to have been supported by brewery workers' unions. Berger turns up frequently in all these cases. Evidence is piling up for use somewhere. It may lead to Wisconsin. Possibly to Berger.

When a Phillip supporter is pushed hard he says: "Well, nobody can say that he has not been a good business governor" or "the business the state has been well managed."

These statements are certainly a challenge to the governor's friends to supply something besides assertions as proof.

In his first "inaugural address" on the opening of the legislative session of 1918, Governor Philipp, in his second paragraph, said:

"The most important problem that confronts us at this time is to introduce economies in the management of our state affairs that will produce substantial reductions in state expenditures and make a reduction in state taxes possible. The people demand retrenchment."

This was clear, truthful and it was a purely business matter. How has the governor answered the demand of the people thus plainly re-echoed by himself, as the business master of first importance? The war was already underway. Our prospect of being in it was plain to men of vision.

The inevitable rise in the cost of living and in the costs of state and local government, were certain and the duty of the business man was to reef in, sail close to the wind, and be prepared to meet the extraordinary expenses that were bound to come.

How has that been done? There is one startling answer. The state valuations for taxation have increased from $2,592,083,150 in 1914 to $3,846,268,744 this year. The increase in four years is $1,253,280,594 or a short of 50 per cent.

But that isn't the real pinch. The tax rate has not been reduced in any "business like" way, and local assessments have increased in even greater proportion than that of the state. Finally, and most terribly of all, the extraordinary expenses of the war are being shuffled, and mumbled over, and our condition at the end of another two years of this sort of "business administration" will go far to put the real price of Wisconsin on the auction block with no buyers.

This is not an exaggeration. It is a perfectly calm and indisputable statement of facts. I have repeatedly called attention to them during the past four years, in the vain hope that the voters would connect their growing

Hat

And Where I
Found It

With the glowing colors of fall comes the big question of the new fall hat to appropriately blend in with the scheme of things.

Regardless of war work or business or any one of the hundred and one things Mi-lady has to think about nowadays, she still must be well-dressed, now more than ever.

And so to see what the war is doing to hats this year, I started vagabonding along the Avenue a bit to see what I would see.

This is what I found:

That the milliners of a certainly are doing their duty in trying to make us forget the war, our worries and the high cost of living generally, for everywhere I found hats more lovely than they have ever been—large and small, feathers, feathers and then more feathers, flowers, fur, velvet, felt, anything and everything that has ever been thought of, of which can be fashioned a hat.

What The "Janesville Girl About Town" Said:

"I found I could get a hat at a reasonable price
without sacrificing
style here."

"Personally I like the two-tone hat—and I notice how becoming they are to my friends.
Mrs. O'Brien—next the Apollo theater—has made a specialty of this style. Some are faced with sky blue, others with blush pink."

THIS LETTER FROM.

It would take more than a pessimist not to be cheered to the core at most after the news of the recent invasion of the Balkans. Little could we imagine the "Zero hour" had been so near. "Go over the top" if anything would make you want to buy a 100 per cent bond it is the slogan to the time of these men who have actually gone
"over the top" and are to come back to us. Within the past week many a home in Janesville has been established by the American Red Cross in the cell of our home here in Janesville and "over the top" and all the farms.This is to "overcome" the liberty loan for Janesville and Stark county. The funds are being raised by the volunteers and soon are given to the enemy land. They are gathered from all over the country and the are received with open arms. The

THE INFLUENZA PANIC.

The rapid spread over the greater part of the country of the influenza epidemic has been a serious feature. It is the kind of disease usually is believed to be winter. The nearly unanimous opinion seems to many Americans that the disease started in the Orient and has spread of the United States. It is the secret service is no doubt responsible.These are blind when attempting to the origin of the disease. It is guessed, however, that the disease should be in the Orient. It is all possible that the suspicion of to the Orient is not well founded.Outbreaks have been reported this on account of the fact that closed schools and closed places of trade. It is the kind of disease become so prevalent that it is that the government seems to be unable of persons not as a result of

of any ventilation except the opening of a door when it is open.If anyone has a fever or a sign of the influenza, it is better open a window. The doctor said he gets from his neighbors and had to desist.Employers in business which prevails find the influenza a great leap to their business. The influenza goes much, and the influenza war work is a great deal of the of workshops are as well as seen that they are well and healthily engaged.
Work is performed in the form of clothes so that it is not a problem.
The field work is not as well as wasted time, but the influenza more important in all weather. A little effort to keep up a good physical condition will save many serious and many fatal illnesses and help keep a healthy and healthy of the country.

THE FOURTH OF OCTOBER.

The American people are more up to date than necessary in backing with their hearts and trenches. All the men, women and of life and death go for nothing if we are not willing to provide the equipment, the men and the amount to nothing. It is a closed by the most patriotic and courageous exactly enough to be sure to be expensive. The men and the will not be able to do this must be done. The last instructions rule the day.The men who are not engaged the few who are not engaged. All the unless we are willing to do our giving. It is a great day, we must pull out all the stops without stint.The men who are engaged home, where there are no being prepared to do their men, quite a very large number of the community under the leadership of the men and the women. When a man offers his services, and he you won't pay him a cent and he keep, you are in a pretty poor sort of a citizen.As the size of the army increases the bill for the men, women, children fore the men, women, children about one-third of the men, women on the men, women, children moment, but it is only a small fraction of our men, women, children reduced if we are to do this a willingness to do this.People are not willing to go through the mud and the mud as usual. It is the kind of day for bonds any other day, we must end down our efforts to do without things we are to do. We must we hold up our hands to the community, or be engaged in our neighbors as shown by the men and the women.
Those who refuse to do this, we do their fair share of the work for whom everyone thinks best.

A NEW SITUATION.

The United States has taken the position that the entire energies must be concentrated on the western front.
But the sudden and dramatic surrender of Bulgaria has opened wide possibilities in other fields the following the end of the war. At such a time to take a large force out of the the frame-up that Germany has perpetrated on her southeastern boundaries.The allied force now preceding northward ought soon to be able to set free Serbia, an act that will give enormous encouragement to all the oppressed nationalities held for many years under the Austrian yoke. It should be possible to form an army of the Czech-Slovaks and other Slavicnationalities of Austria, and at least by early spring to invade Austria from the south.The Italian invasion of Austria has been tremendously difficult, because it had to cross the most precipitous mountain ranges. An invasion from Serbia, once that country has been reoccupied, would cross plains and find easy going. Austria ought to be out of the war before next July 4th.Already reports of Turkey's surrender are in the air, and may be confirmed before these lines reach thereader. But the Turks are a very strenuous and crafty people, and it may take more fighting yet to put them out of business. But with her Piedmont army wiped out, and if the road to Berlin can shortly be cut, an Army the size of the force around Sarajevo ought to take Constantinople and out of the Dardanelles fort.With the gates open to the Black Sea, it becomes possible to reach the most populous section of Russia by water free from ice, and thus encouraging all the anti-German elements.Great events cast their shadows here, and the door is wide open to more hopeful military projects in the near future.The question is who asked what has become of the boy who used to sit in the upper gallery ten cent seats of the theater and munch peanuts and stamp on the floor? Well, some of them, help! just paid off for their compliments, are blocking their books and inviting their best girls to occupy the $2.00 front seats.The people who think the soldiers at the training camps are a menagerie for public exhibition, with all these spies and whores around, may be the same ones who think it strange that the influenza started simultaneously in a lot of the camps.White passengers in the luxurious Pullman train because a train is three minutes late, the cheerful soldiers crowded into the day coaches of the camp trains are whistling and singing.The motorists who are satisfied with between miles an hour don't cut a great figure on the road, but you don't very often see the farmers running with open rails to get them out from under the car.The bond in the trenches net $1.00 a day for everything at the risk of their lives, while safe here at home we have to have $10.00 to $100.00 a day for what we have in the way of weapons.Arousing suspicion will be cast what became of the squads who were exposed to the world. Well, they are all in favor of it now, but are growing bitterly about the cost.The government won't have to work very hard to dispense building houses from America. Among any persons who have observed the changes now to pay for wages on construction jobs.Some of these will people express the very best and the greatest concerning the influenza deaths in the army camps are the same ones that when in newspaper prints a small initial story.Wives and husbands selling their tees for relief, contributions from our own home relief want big bonds because you can't sell them for quite part on the market.The automobile drivers the Fox hunting up to that time mentioned of driving around all the parts he can stand, has emerged from the back door of his hole.Concerning how powerful equipment is concealed by the front moon-rope. And if he would probably be in if we didn't find ourselves out for two hours in the country.The people who were too indolent to go to work in any season now, are now complaining of the heat back in living rooms.The people who are not able to ride with the other winter, now in the most of course, but they are not to sign up with that has the most labor hours.One of the few that the kids of the world are going to win the next game, and with the same as the ones round our front trees and the hole.Concerning what about driving around the same ones who will ride in the car to be encouraged but we can't open to enough motor trucks.Some of the people who are not able to work in any season

Edgerton News

Edgerton, Oct. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. A. Clark are in receipt of a telegram from the war department at Washington, stating that their son Norman died. The news received in action. Norman was wounded in action on August 31st and the message stated that he died Sept. 11th. Norman was a graduate of our high school, and was a member of the foot ball team and also took a great deal of interest in his school work being favorite with all the pupils and teachers. On April 19th, when Norman was 19 years of age, he enlisted with the local company on that day. He left Edgerton with the company and went to Camp Douglas and later to Waco, Texas, and went with his company to France. Like everything that he attempted, he took great interest and pride in his company, and he was but in a short time after he arrived in France, that he was promoted until he was made sergeant.

John Henderson met with a most painful accident yesterday, while at work at the S. P. Saunders farm north of the city. Mr. Henderson was about to put the harness on one of the farm horses and had gone to the stall with part of the harness, when the animal became frightened and kicked. Mr. Henderson suffered a broken collar bone and was otherwise bruised before aid arrived to help him. Dr. Mortensen was summoned and the injured man was removed to his home in the city.

Rev. and Mrs. Brandt of Sheboygan, are spending a portion of the week at the home of Edgerton relatives.

Mrs. Charles Pierce died at the farm home near Newville, yesterday afternoon from pneumonia, which developed from influenza. Mr. S. Pierce was formerly Miss Harriet Park, daughter of Mrs. W. Park of this city. At this writing no definite funeral arrangements have been made.

John Bullitt of Watertown has been a guest at the home of M. H. Ford, during the week.

Miss Ethel Newwood is at Stoughton at the home of her sister, Mrs. Alfred Thompson. Mr. Thompson is suffering from pneumonia.

School opened yesterday with a normal attendance in some departments, while in other departments there were a good many absent.

The 500 club will meet at the home of Mrs. G. W. Doty, this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bunker mourn the loss of their daughter Lillie, who died yesterday afternoon from pneumonia, contracted from an attack of influenza. Lillie had just past her eighteenth birthday, and her death comes as a severe shock to her parents and many friends. Funeral arrangements will be announced when made.

Ole Rossebo moved his household effects to Janesville, today, where the family will make their future home. Otto Dahlman was a Milwaukee visitor the first of the week.

Andrew McIntosh and A. H. Clarke accompanied the remains of the late Dr. Mortensen, to Madison, yesterday.

Beginning Monday, Oct. 7th, all blacksmith work done in the shops in Edgerton, will be cash. Bart Curran, Albert Smith, Thos. Westlake & Son.

LOAN DRIVE OPENS WITH FINE ADDRESS

CAPTAIN HUTCHINSON OF THE LONDON IRISH RIFLES. A WONDERFUL SPEAKER

STIRRING TALES TOLD

Lient. Mac Donald of Whitewater Aslo. Gave Address—Medals Presented.
Boy Scouts For Work In Last Drive

From the battle of the Marne straight through to Chateau Thierry, Captain Hutchinson of the London Irish Rifles, thrilled an audience that tears to laughter, and through it all made an appeal to the American people to swing this Fourth Liberty Loan in such a way as to prove in something besides words that no peace will be accepted until Germany begs on her knees for any terms and unconditional surrender.

"The people of Wisconsin," said the captain in his delightful English accent, "with certain fear and trembling for I had received reports that Wisconsin was not a very safe place to be. So when told your state was on my list, I thought I had better go back to the trenches. I want to say to you, that out of the eighteen states in which I have spoken I have never received a single donation than by the people of Wisconsin."

"All my preconceived ideas of America were completely shattered when I came here. I thought your country was sort of a camping ground for people of all nations with no spirit of national unity. When I saw your first soldiers march through London last year, I thought isn't that just like America to send out of her army to die to win us, but as I went through your states from Washington as far as Colorado, I realized I was wrong, that these men were the cream of your country, typical of your American manhood. Right here I want to say that from a military point of view America's entrance into the struggle was timed to perfection.

Just one hour after the drive had opened the whistle was blown, and the bell rang announcing that the bank had secured its first $100,000.

Twice more during the day the whistles blew and the total at the end of the first day was $300,000, but the campaign committee stated this morning that they were confident the city would go over the top with plenty to spare before tomorrow morning.

Roy Wisner, a member of the executive committee of the campaign, stated that the enthusiasm displayed by the workers was marvelous and that it is this kind of spirit that is going to put Janesville over the top with a record that will be hard to beat by any Wisconsin city.

One thing that still remains unsettled in the minds of some of the people is in regard to the per cent payment on the application. This per cent payment must be made with the application and no application can be accepted by either the banks or the headquarters without the payment of 10 per cent.

Janesville made an enviable record during the third Liberty loan and is up to the people to surpass the record and then, and establish an even better one.

It is urged by many that the peace talk which is so prominent at the present time will hinder the campaign, and the people are urged to remember that the war is not yet over and that the government has done much more than ever before, and it is absolutely necessary that the fourth Liberty Loan is a big success, and Janesville by going over the top 100 per cent will help the fourth Liberty loan to be the greatest of them all.

BRIDE of BATTLE

A Romance of the American Army Fighting on the Battle-fields of France.

by VICTOR ROUSSEAU

Copyright, 1918, by W. G. Chapman
He pushed open the cellar door and led Mark along the basement passage until a gleam of moonlight appeared in front of them. They emerged into a little garden, a replica of the one next door. There was no policeman on guard. In a moment they were in the street and in safety.

Mark, who had already recovered from the effects of his blow, save for a splitting headache, took a car with Hartley, and half an hour later the two were again in Mark's rooms.

"So you were packing?" asked Hartley, looking about him. "What were you going to do?"

"I don't know," answered Mark. "It's queer, being broken like this—I've nothing, no prospects, only a little money. I have to earn a living."

"It'll be the army," said Hartley. "You'd be a sergeant in no time; you'd run through the ranks in about a couple of years. And then you've won. You've conquered fortune. And you're in a position to do a little quiet working to straighten out your tangle and run down the Kenson gang. And then I'll help you, for when the time comes I can tell what I know. At present I can't. I'm waiting—"

He burst into an expletive, and his face was twisted with anguish. The man seemed under the stress of some overpowering emotion.

Led Mark Along the Basement Passage.

"And how about your own part in this affair, Hartley?"

The man wailed as if Mark had struck him. Mark put out his hand, took Hartley's, and shook it warmly.

"You're right, Hartley," he said quietly. "I'm ready to sink my name, then, and we'll go together as comrades, and by Heaven we'll set the whole crooked business right!"

CHAPTER X.

"Weston! Hey, there!"

Mark, who was sitting at the entrance of the tent which he shared with five other privates of the Medical corps, looked up at the sound of the name to which he had grown accustomed. At the sight of the corporal who had hunted him, he flung down the grooved strip of metal, known as the "soldier's friend," with the aid of which he had been polishing his buttons, and hurried obediently forward.

"The train's in from the base with the sisters and doctors to meet the convoy that we're expecting from the front. Every man's on duty until the job's finished. Report to the matron with Hartley."

Mark nodded, and departed at a run toward the door of the base hospital, at which the matron, fidgeting impatiently, was awaiting the assembling of the orderlies.

It was war, and the echoes of the far distant guns were all about them daily, though war had never passed that way.

Under the name of Weston, Mark had enlisted in the medical branch of the service. It was a lowly branch, despised by those who knew nothing of its activities. But the choice had been between that and nothing, for the first fighting contingents to be sent overseas embraced only the regulars, not those of the draft. Mark had enlisted rather than wait, especially since he knew that Colonel Howard, with Kellerman and his staff, were already in France.

Mark could hardly restrain his feelings.

"I'll tell you," said Mark, raising his eyes. "I was accused of treachery, of betraying secrets to enemies of my country—"

He gasped and grew red; he saw that his arrow had gone home, and went on pitilessly.

"When I was at your reception you had smiles for everyone."

"That's enough, Captain Wallace," she said, with an indrawn breath. "You insulted me the last time we met, you know, or probably have forgotten. I see that all my thoughts of you were wrong. I was always a burden. And when you didn't write so many times, and when you didn't come to see me, I thought—oh, I'll tell you now, since you have humiliated me as deeply as it is possible to humiliate a woman. I thought you stayed away and kept away because you liked me, and because you were afraid that I might come to care for you, and ruin my prospects among the rich young officers. I thought it was a sort of absurd, misplaced, quixotic chivalry, Captain Wallace."

Wallace was choking. So she had known!

But he had won his miserable game, as he realized from her next words:

"It was a foolish idea, Captain Wallace, and now I've given it up, and I know that men aren't so idealistic and chivalrous as I have imagined them. But—she bent forward—"I don't believe you are a traitor, Captain Mark!"

MORRIS MILLER

George Stallings, the original miracle man of baseball, is through. At least, he says so.

The leader of the Braves says he will devote all his time to his cotton plantation at Haddocks, Ga.

It probably will not be necessary for him to resign, as he has a five-year contract which expires next fall. The probabilities are that there will be no big league baseball next year, so Stallings will be released automatically from his job.

Stallings started the world in 1914 when he led the Braves from a falling position to the National League pennant. The bankers who bought the club expected it to net the profits it produced in that banner year. It didn't. In fact, it is believed that the club has done little more than break even. As a result, the bankers and Stallings have clashed. Whether this had any effect in Stallings' plan isn't known.

Stallings is well off. He survived the cotton panic in 1914 when the bottom fell out of the market. His salary and world series money pulled him through. He has prospered since then. He owns a plantation of 6,000 acres and lives as a cotton baron.

Incidentally, the Braves' stockholders may be forced to reorganize the club when baseball is resumed. Percy Huntington resigned the presidency to join the army. It may be that a deal will be made, also, whereby the two big league clubs in Boston will use the Braves' field in the future.

Willie Mitchell, big league southpaw, is pitching for a soldier team over there now. Wonder if Willie still shows a tendency to blow up in the seventh or eighth inning?

Speaking of freak performances, in the final Louisville-Toledo doubleheader, Catcher Kelly of the Toledo team had the unusual experience of catching for both teams. Walter Meyer sustained a broken collar bone and Louisville was without a catcher, as Kocher had left after the first game, so Kelly was borrowed to finish the second game for the Colonels.

The soldier's baseball team at Camp Taylor, Louisville, Ky., has lost the services of two of its most valuable members because they prefer the bars of officers to the bat and ball. The players are Bill Wainscans, former Cleveland Indian pitcher, and Jack Corbett, former minor league manager. Both men have graduated to officers' training camps. Wainscans will go to Camp Gordon, but Corbett has not yet got his training school designated. Other members of the team who have been sent to camp to train for officers' commissions are Earl Yingling, Dave Callahan and Frank Huber. Pervoe, famous as the Galatian Squash, and pitcher for many teams in many leagues, has been accepted for Y. M. C. A. war service work and in answer to a request that he be sent to France, once has been informed that he probably will be on duty in a few weeks.

"Cap" Huston, part owner of the Yankees before the war broke out, is "Cap" no more. He has been made a lieutenant colonel over there. More power to him.

Walter Trumbull, one of the many baseball seafarers now at the front has risen from private to captain in the few months he has been in service. Walt may have had the wrong dope sometimes as a scribe but he certainly had the right dope when he said that the U. S. league was in for a big year.

Of course, it's wasted energy to speak of it, but why have the big league magnates allowed the world series players to break the national commission's ruling against barnstorming trips? You can make up of the stars are still playing games.

Benny Leonard had everything to gain and nothing to lose when he tackled Ted Lewis, but that didn't prevent Benny from being mighty careful of his jaw.

Germany's Terms

By Count Roon

Germany is entitled to the following terms because of its strength, and until they are realized there should be no armistice:

Annexation of Belgium. Annexation of the entire Flanders coast, including Calais. Annexation of the Briey and Longwy basins and the Toul, Belfort and Verdun regions eastward.

Restitution to Germany of all her Colonies, including Kiaochow.

Great Britain must cede to Germany such naval bases and coaling stations as Germany designates.

Great Britain must give Gibraltar to Spain, cede its war fleet to Germany, give Egypt and the Suez Canal to Turkey.

Greece must be re-established under former King Constantine, with frontiers as before the war.

Austria and Bulgaria will divide Serbia and Montenegro.

Great Britain, France, and the United States must pay all of Germany's war costs, the indemnity being a minimum of $45,000,000,000.

They must also agree to deliver raw materials immediately.

France and Belgium must remain occupied at their expense until these conditions are carried out.

How Are You Going To Answer Germany's Peace Terms?

THE greatest advertisement for the Fourth Liberty Loan of the United States of America has been written by a Prussian.

His name is Count Roon and he wrote it as a member of the Prussian House of Lords. It is printed above. Read it carefully.

Forty-five billion dollars or more indemnity!

This, then, is the price the world must pay for a victorious German peace. This, then, is the footnote to the Kaiser's prayer, expressed in the coldest terms of plainest business.

This is the meaning of war to the Prussian, as he proclaims his battles righteous, prosecuted in self-defense.

Oh, you men and women of America, is there a dollar in all this land to-day so tightly held that it will not now come forth to answer the swaggering arrogance of the Hun?

These days will tell, for as you place your name upon that subscription blank for Liberty Bonds you state the price your land, your liberty and democracy are worth to you today.

Now how are you going to answer the "peace terms" of the kaiser and his band of murdering buccaneers?

This present German peace plea is the kaiser's peace fraud, its purpose is to obstruct the Fourth Liberty Loan and everyone is warned to beware of this latest subtlety of the Hun.
